HUSBAND JOINS WIFE IN JAIL FOR BURGLARY

APPREHENDED IN TOLEDO

Woman Confesses Three Marion Crimes to Wyandot County Sheriff.

Special To The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 13—Allen Cunningham today joined his wife in the Wyandot county jail here to await action of the next session of the grand jury for the burglary of a local filling station two weeks ago. They gave their home as Cardington.

He pleaded guilty to the burglary charge when arraigned here today. He was held under $5,000 bond. His wife, who was arrested several weeks ago, was held under $1,000 bond. Cunningham also is reported to have confessed to the burglary of the Beidler Hardware store.

Cunningham was apprehended in Toledo Thursday night and returned to Upper Sandusky late yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Raymond Stansbery and Night Patrolman N. H. Link.

Woman Confesses

With the arrest of the pair, local authorities believe they have solved numerous burglaries in this district.

Mrs. Cunningham confessed that she and her husband looted the Beidler Hardware store several weeks ago of five guns and a quantity of ammunition, attaches of the sheriff's office said. The guns were later located in a Toledo pawnship through a ticket in her possession.

It also was reported here that the couple participated in burglaries of a filling station, the Dugan Clothing store and an A. & P. store at Marion. The automobile in which the couple were riding the night of the burglary here was stolen in Kenton.

Mrs. Cunningham was arrested by a night patrolman when he surprised them carrying loot from the filling station. Mr. Cunningham escaped.

After admitting the two burglaries here, Cunningham denied that the car in his possession had been stolen. A check on this angle of his story was being made by authorities today.

Former Marion Woman

Mrs. Cunningham, it was revealed today, formerly lived in Marion. She is said to have moved from there three years ago. Her parents are living south of Cardington at the present time. His home is in Toledo.

When arrested in Toledo he was working at a police station. The exact nature of the position could not be learned. Sheriff Raymond Whitte of Bowling Green called at the police station in Toledo Thursday. He saw Cunningham and recognized him as the man sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory two years ago on a burglary charge. Completing his identification he notified authorities in Wyandot county.

Cunningham told questioners here that he had committed the burglaries to obtain funds to tide him over during a period of unemployment. He said he had been seeking a position with an oil company with no success.

The Marion angle of the case will be gone into more thoroughly, it was indicated today. Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock of Marion has planned to question the couple next week.

WHITE SILENT ON CABINET CHOICES

Governor-Elect Says Some of Aids Likely To Be Named Next Week.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13—Political observers here today were completely baffled by a most unusual situation with regard to Governor-elect George White's cabinet selections and other appointments.

Heretofore, tips from either the governor-elect or from persons in close touch with the newly-chosen executive permitted political observers a pretty good inkling as to the possible makeup of the new administrations.

Governor-elect White, however, has kept the state mystified as to the men he is or has been considering for positions in his cabinet. Political prognosticators are "in the dark."

Several names have been tossed into the pile of possibilities, but none has received either confirmation or denial from the governor-elect or his confidants.

Before leaving Friday evening for Washington to attend the annual Gridiron dinner given by Washington newspaper correspondents, White said he expected to announce some of his cabinet appointments next week.

SPANISH TROOPS WIN IN CLASH WITH REBELS

Prisoners, Equipment Taken in Battle; General Reports Revolt Checked.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, Dec 13 — In a furious battle near the town of Ayerbe at dawn today federal troops took a hundred prisoners, seized rebel equipment and drove a revolting regiment of infantry back upon the garrison town of Jaga, where rebellion flared yesterday.

General Berenguer, the prime minister asserted that the engagement had terminated the revolt and that federal troops were in control of the Jaca area.

The prime minister made this announcement after a brief audience with King Alfonso this morning. The loyal troops from Saragossa, he said, continued a march on Jaca after the battle.

So far as could be learned in the face of demoralized communications the mutiny had not spread beyond the province of Huesca where the rebels, variously estimated at between 1,000 and 6,000, had massed their forces.

The mutineers, censored information indicated, had only such arms and equipment as could be seized in the Jaca garrison, and the government professed confidence that the revolt would be put down speedily.

There were unverified reports that the uprising had extended to Saragossa, where Major Ramon Franco, the picturesque aviator, was said to be at the head of the movement, but virtually all telephone and telegraph communication with that area was cut off.

There were rumors also that the rebels were holding six federal officers as hostages; threatening summary execution if loyal troops moved into battle. The report was that these captures had been made during the night while the rebels marched from Jaca to Ayerbe, where a night skirmish preceded this morning's battle.

First official reports of the casualties in the battle which raged

WITH REBELS?

Reports indicate that Major Ramon Franco, noted Spanish aviator who recently escaped from federal prison, is leading a section of the rebellious military force which started a revolt yesterday. Franco was in prison for alleged offenses against the government.

BILL IS CUT TO $116,000,000

Agreement Reached by Senate and House Members in Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — Conferees on the $118,000,000 emergency public works bill reduced the total appropriations today to $116,000,000 and restored the house provisions to permit the President to use the specified sums interchangeably.

The conferees also eliminated the senate amendment requiring that local labor be employed on all relief projects.

The reduction in total appropriations was brought about by cutting down from $5,000,000 to $3,000,000 the senate amendment for work on unreserved public roads.

Before the bill went to conference the senate had increased the bill's total to $118,000,000, and knocked out the clause granting power to the president to shift funds from one project to another. This change was viewed by the administration as likely to cut down actual relief and the house has disagreed with all the senate's amendments.

The drouth bill, amended in committee to appropriate only $30,000,000 for loans none of it applicable to food purchases, is to come up in the house Monday or Tuesday under the most stringent procedure the leaders can obtain. They are seeking to keep the senate's $60,000,000 figure from getting tangled in the proceedings.

A week-end recess served today to postpone further moves in the delicate situation between President Hoover and the Senate.

Until next week also was passed

Arrest Two Others in Loan Company Shortage

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13—Startling repercussions were expected as state and county officials settled down today to a systematic investigation of the activities of Gilbert H. Beesemyer, Guaranty Building & Loan association official who yesterday confessed misappropriating more than $8,000,000.

Although Beesemyer claimed sole knowledge of and accepted full responsibility for wrecking his company and for the abstraction of funds from two other firms with which he was connected, another man and a woman were taken into technical custody last night.

ROGERS UNDERGOES OPERATION AT TOLEDO

Popular Film Star Reported "Resting Comfortably" at Hospital.

By United Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 13—The famous smile of Charles (Buddy) Rogers, motion picture star, was gone today as he lay in Toledo hospital where, at 8 a. m., he underwent an operation for acute appendicitis.

CHARLES ROGERS

At 9 a. m. attendants at the hospital said he was "resting comfortably" and that his condition was in every way favorable.

Physicians said that apparently Rogers had been suffering for many months but had concealed his agony from everyone because of his desire to continue on his personal tour and not disappoint his audiences.

Yesterday, two hours before he was to leave for Hollywood, he was seized with pain so intense that his secretary, Max Schall, became alarmed and summoned a physician.

Buddy was sent at once to the hospital, where his condition was ascertained.

Thursday night he had been a member of a dinner party at the

3 KILLED AS TRAIN CRASHES INTO AUTO

Two Others Near Death as Result of Crossing Accident at Wadsworth.

By The Associated Press

WADSWORTH, O., Dec. 13—Three persons are dead today and two others are lingering between life and death at a hospital as the result of a railroad crossing accident last night.

The dead: Milo Aber, 30; Miss Donna Aber, 8; Virgil Wolf, 24. All are residents of Wadsworth, as are the injured, Mrs. Milo Aber, 31, and Evelyn Aber, 7.

Aber was at the wheel of the sedan when it was hurled into the air in a collision with a fast freight at the Erie railroad crossing near the public square at 11:40 p. m. All car windows were closed and there was no warning light at the crossing, according to Harve Welday, night watchman for the city, who saw the crash.

He said the auto had almost cleared the rails when the locomotive caught it. The car turned completely over as it was splintered by the impact, he says

COLUMBUS MAN BELIEVED IN HOLDUP HERE

GRILLED BY DETECTIVES

Think Man May Have Been in Number of Other Holdups in Vicinity.

That Harry Gordon alias Stanley Sharitis, 28, arrested in Columbus this morning after an unsuccessful attempt at banditry is the man who held up the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co. office here early this week appeared almost a certainty at noon today, following a grilling of the man by Columbus detectives. Gordon is a Columbus man.

Admissions made since his capture may link him with a number of robberies in and around Marion, authorities believe. He was being quizzed this afternoon as police and detectives probed deeper into his recent history.

Word that Gordon has been virtually identified as the perpetrator of the local holdup was received here by Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock from Columbus detectives today.

Gordon was captured by Columbus police after a pistol duel, following an unsuccessful attempt to steal the payroll of the Mazer-Cressman Cigar Co. factory, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Columbus police were in communication with local authorities regarding the local holdup after Gordon's arrest this morning. The holdup netted the bandit more than $80.

The money was taken from the office here during the noon hour, after C. C. Steward, superintendent, had left the office. The bandit threatened Miss Dorothy Hite, 18, a stenographer, with a gun while he emptied the cash drawer.

He was captured this morning after he entered the offices of the cigar company to which a payroll for 1,400 employes had just been delivered. Another waited outside in an automobile.

When a crowd assembled, the driver fled, deserting Gordon. Several shots were exchanged by police and the fugitive before he was captured.

URBANA HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING DESTROYED

350 Pupils Left Without Quarters as Old Structure Burns.

By The Associated Press

URBANA, O., Dec. 13—The old $75,000 Urbana High school building was destroyed by fire early today. Firemen, unable to save the building, allowed the flames to burn and concentrated their efforts on preventing them from spreading to the nearby new high school building, erected at a cost of $100,000.

Origin of the blaze was not determined. No one was injured.

The Urbana board of education met today to select temporary rooms for the 350 children who attended the school building.

The building, noted throughout the country for its strange architecture which included great spires and towers, similar to European castles, burned on the 34th anniversary of a fire that destroyed the structure that formerly occupied the plot.

School officials said they carried $54,000 insurance on the building and its contents but estimated that more than $100,000 would be needed for reconstruction.

Four Bandits at Toledo Escape with $4,000.

By The Associated Press

E. W. Heintschel, branch manager, Louella Hurren, bookkeeper and one customer were in the bank when the robbers entered with drawn guns.

While the bank was being held up, three other customers entered and also were forced to stand with hands raised in the air.

ARMY DEFEATS NAVY ELEVEN

Stecker Makes Touchdown on Long Run for Only Score; Count Is 6 to 0.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Army defeated Navy, 6 to 0, in their charity football game here today when Ray Stecker, halfback, staged a spectacular 57-yard run for a touchdown in the final quarter for the only score of the game. Broushous, attempting the extra point on a dropkick, failed.

The gridiron forces of the two service institutions met for the first time after a three-year lapse over an eligibility controversy.

After the score, Navy had a chance to put over a touchdown when the Middies recovered Bowman's fumble on the Army 37-yard line, but after making a first down on the 25-yard mark the Annapolis eleven lost the oval and its chance to gain at least a tie was thrown away.

First Half Scoreless

It was a struggle between two hard-scrapping defensive machines for most of the first half after Navy successfully repulsed two early scoring threats by the Army. The first Cadet charge was thrown back on the 14-yard line. The second bogged down on the Navy's 12-yard line, as passes hurled by Ray Stecker were grounded behind the goal lines each time.

Navy was in a desperate hole at this stage as a bad pass from center was recovered for a 19-yard loss on the Middie one-yard line, but Captain "Blimp" Bowstrom punted out of range from behind his own goal line.

The Sailors in the first half displayed less attacking power and did not threaten to score, penetrating Army territory only once.

Before the game it was estimated the gate receipts would exceed $800,000.

The big American league park was not filled to its capacity of 80,000 but there were few vacant patches in the colorful throng surrounding the gridiron.

War Scenes

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 13—Germany has banned that splendid film, "All Quiet on the Western Front," on account of it showing Germany losing the war.

They are going to take it back and make it with a different finish. Well they can show us losing it and they won't be far wrong, and I am sure there will be no kick.

Another disarmament conference disbanded in Geneva without doing anything, but getting more suspicious of each other. If any two nations don't hate each other why just let 'em confer on something, and they will before it's over. Stop conferring, and you will stop fighting.

Bradshaw Youth Dies In City Hospital Without Regaining Consciousness.

DRIVER OF CAR NOT HELD

Lad Was One of 10 Children of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bradshaw.

Fatal injuries were sustained by Luther Colvin Bradshaw, 10, of 446 Park street when he ran into the path of an automobile on North Main street late yesterday.

Four hours after he was struck by a Ford coach driven by J. L. Gore of 474 Silver street, the boy died in City hospital from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Driver Not Held

Gore is not being held, as witnesses say the accident was unavoidable.

Gore was driving south on Main street at a slow speed, and had just crossed the railroad tracks at Mill street when the accident occurred yesterday afternoon at 5:20, he said. His attention was attracted to a Western Union messenger boy who was riding a bicycle between his car and automobiles parked at the curb.

The car just passed the intersection of Main and Mill street when the Bradshaw youth came running into the street from between two automobiles parked at the west curb. His body struck the right front fender and bumper of the Gore car. Gore swerved sharply to the left and avoided passing over the boy's body.

The boy was rendered unconconscious, and did not regain consciousness. He was taken to City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. He died last night at 9:20.

Gore was ordered to appear at police station this morning, but no charge was placed against him.

One of 10 Children

The boy was one of 10 children, several of whom are married. He was a student in the third grade at the State Street school.

He was born Oct. 24, 1920, in Fredericktown to L. C. and Elizabeth Townsend Bradshaw, who survive him with his brothers and sisters, Mrs. Eddie Shirk of 135 Nye street, Helen, Mazel, Dorothy, James, Grace, Audrey May and Betty Jane at home and Mrs. Aubrey Nash of 346 South Prospect street. Mrs. Nash is a half-sister. His grandmother, Mrs. Anna A. Bradshaw lives at 746 Davids street.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at the Boyd funeral home on South Main street in charge of Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of Oakland Evangelical church. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may view the body at the funeral home.

"CRY BABY" BANDIT TRIO DIE IN CHAIR

Youths Who Wept Profusely During Trial Are Calm at Execution.

By The Associated Press

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 13—Three "cry baby bandits," youths who shed tears profusely during their trial, were executed last night for the slaying of a Long Island druggist.

James Bolger, 19, James Butler, 20, and Itallo Ferdinandi, 22, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison after Governor Roosevelt had refused to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

Butler was the first to go. He made no statement.

Ferdinandi was the next. "Hello, gentleman," he said. "May God forgive me for what I have done. Bless my mother, father and sweetheart."

Bolger ended the procession. He strode in with his hands in the pockets. "I die like I lived," he remarked, "with a smile on my face."

Governor Roosevelt said their guilt had been established beyond doubt and that although they were initial offenders, they had confessed to seven robberies for which they had not been convicted.

The youths were convicted of killing Charles Bauer in a holdup at Westbury, N. Y., on Feb. 4. Their defense was that Bauer was accidentally shot.

Prohibition Violators To Get Best Jail Quarters

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13—The more comfortable quarters of the county jail will be reserved for liquor law violators when the regime of Sheriff-elect John M. Sulzmann is established.

Sulzmann, while promising to enforce the prohibition laws, said the offenders "are only charged with a technical violation of the law. They will be segregated from the murderers, holdups, porch climbers and thugs."

Children Turn Out in Huge Throng for Toy Party at Palace Theater

DEMURE looking dolls took time out from keeping a wary eye on the fire trucks, the woolly bears and the treacherous looking airplanes, to glance at the holiday outfit of her sophisticated sister, and Uncle Wiggily looked positively lost without Nurse Fuzzy in the vast assortment of toys contributed by between 1,300 and 1,400 children which turned the lobby of the Palace theater into a temporary real palace of toys this morning.

The occasion was the children's theater party sponsored by the management of the Palace and a committee working with the Welfare commissary of the Family Welfare society, and the toys represented the children's gifts to other less fortunate children and at the same time provided them with a password to the show.

It was a busy day for the committee and the theater management who were on hand to see that the children were directed safely into the theater and well cared for while there, and to care for the toys. The city firemen, with Chief T. J. McFarland in charge, loaded the toys into city trucks to be taken to the Y. M. C. A. where they will be sorted, reconditioned and wrapped for the needy children of the city. The pictures which included some rollicking

Shoppers

THE most enraging thing was brought to my notice this morning. Would you believe that there are some folks who have actually completed their Christmas shopping? What a comfortable feeling that must be and if those who believe that 'when a task is once begun, never leave it till it's done," wanted to act that way, what a smuggish air they might assume. And how funny we last minute shoppers must look to those who have not procrastinated. One's very mien proclaims that there is but one purpose in life and if faces tell anything the Christmas cheer has been lost intransit. But Christmas Eve finds us under the wire, a little breathless perhaps, but none the worse for the eleventh hour scamper, and believe it or not there's something of a kick in it after all.

Clubs

IT seems sort of a disloyal thing to say and I'm not asking any one to agree with me, but have just been wondering if men don't get more of a kick out of getting together in clubs than women? The subject came up for discussion when a group of women were guests of a men's luncheon club recently. Their time is so limited and they go in for the hour's recreation with plenty of determination of getting all they can out of it. Their badges seem to be a pretty important item of the meeting for they wear them with all the aplomb of a general with a half-dozen wars to his credit. And do they sing—well they sound like a bunch of school kids just before Santa Claus comes.

Decorations

THE Grangers are gone and the town's just a bit lonely. It was heaps of fun to have so much company, especially for breakfast and the regulars didn't mind one bit being crowded or waiting their turns. And the convention couldn't have been planned at a more opportune time for whoever saw the town more dressed up. The weatherman has done his part in giving folks an opportunity to saunter up and down the streets and feast their eyes on the decorations and the store window, but getting right down to brass tacks it's going to take a real Christmas snowfall to put on the finishing touches.

RULE SACRIFICE FLY FROM DIAMOND PLAY

Majors To Count It Time at Bat: Home Run Output Hit.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Goodbye to the sacrifice fly. Batsmen who lift long flies to the outfield on which base runners can advance a base will not be credited with a sacrifice hereafter and will be charged with a time at bat.

The joint rules committee of the major leagues has so decided.

Another change limits a batsman to two bases on all balls which bounce off the playing field. This was aimed to halt the epidemic of trick home runs made when the ball bounced off the playing field into the stands.

The American league approved the National league rule by which balls are judged fair or foul where they leave the playing field and not where they are last seen.

FOLLOWERS of Harding High who have been hoping for a successful basketball season have no reason to feel disappointed in the showing of the Presidents last night. The team lost to Kenton 12-11 in the first game to be sure, but the boys looked like they would improve a lot with additional practice. The experience gained from the defeat last night should go a long way toward helping them eliminate many of their mistakes on the court.

The team put up a good fight from the start to the end of the battle but lacked the smooth working offense that can come only with a lot of hard work on the practice floor.

Harding's diminutive forwards did fairly well in their first game of the year. Merkel and Morgan both played well on the floor although some mistakes must be credited to them. Both show promise of being made into good cage players. Guthrie, who relieved Merkel in parts of both the first and second halves also worked fairly well.

Little opportunity was had to see what the Presidents have in the way of reserve strength as only two substitutions were made in the game. Don Lindsay replaced Bush late in the game and Guthrie took the place of Merkel.

Harding Outfitted in New Suits

The Harding team took the floor last night bedecked in snappy new outfits that should draw many comments of admiration ere the season is well under way. The high school color combination of red and black is carried out in both the playing suits and the sweat suits. The school's athletic monicker, Presidents, appears in prominent letters across the back of the sweat suits.

Harding has been in need of new suits for a long time to replace some that were not particularly striking to the eye. They have them now. If the play of the team looks as good in future games this season as the new outfits look the Presidents are in for a glorious season on the hardwood. Let's go Harding!

ONE-MAN OPPOSITION ENOUGH TO DEFEAT LOCAL IRISH LINEUP

St. Vincent Star Collects 20 Points To Aid Team Win 22-9.

BY KARL R. McELROY

A ONE-MAN team last night gave St. Mary's High school cagers their first defeat in two years on The Star auditorium floor.

The man was Roberts; the team St. Vincent of Mt. Vernon; and the score 22 to 9.

Locating the basket in the second quarter Roberts led his team to a one-sided victory. He scored 20 of the 22 points and all of them were field goals.

It may have been one man that paved the way for the victory, but St. Mary's need not feel down in the heels about the defeat. Very few teams could have stopped the shifty Mt. Vernon forward last night.

Couldn't Miss

No matter from what position on the floor he shot from or which hand he used the ball couldn't resist the temptation to go through the bucket. He was, beyond all doubt, the best shot who has appeared on the local floor in many seasons.

The game started out looking like another victory for the local Irish. At the end of the first period Mt. Vernon had failed to score and Marion had pushed through three counters. It was St. Mary's best period of the game and the team was hitting on all five.

The bright outlook did not last long. Roberts located the loop and three buckets were marked up. Marion scored a basket to make it 6 to 5 at the half.

Bintz Ties Count

The depression was felt in full force in the third frame. Jack Bintz tied the count with a free throw and Roberts went on a scoring spree. The count was 12 to 7 as the gun sounded the end of the quarter.

Durbin managed to break into the limelight in the final period and scored a bucket for Mt. Vernon. The remaining eight points were from baskets shot by Roberts.

O'Keefe was high point man for Marion with two fielders and a free throw for a total of five. Jack Bintz marked up three points and Fye one.

BUCYRUS, GALION WIN NON-LEAGUE GAMES

BUCYRUS, Dec. 13—Bucyrus High school cagers won their first game of the season last night by beating Bellevue 21 to 13 in a non-league game. Seele of Bucyrus scored 12 of the 21 points, while Stoll of Bellevue scored five of the points for the losers. Talbott, Bucyrus gridiron star, looked promising.

Bellevue was outclassed the entire game, never scoring as many points in any quarter as their opponents. Seele provided the main offensive strength for the winners.

In the preliminary game Bucyrus defeated the Chatfield girls by one point in an exciting game. The score was 24 to 23. The summary follows:

BATTALINO POUNDS CUBAN FOR VICTORY

Stribling Takes Decision from Griffiths in Hard Battle.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Some thousands of fight fans were wondering today whether Pat Battalino Hartford's favorite fighting son, had been vastly underrated as a champion or whether "all through" should be written on the long record of the young Cuban negro Kid Chocolate.

Battalino whose performances had failed to impress the fight faithful made a highly successful defense of his featherweight title in last night's battle before 17,000 Christmas fund contributors at Madison Square Garden. Yet after watching him pound the Cuban 15 rounds to win the unanimous decision of the referee and two judges the fans still were not sure whether it was Battalino's strength or the Kid's weakness that brought the result.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13—W. L. "Young" Stribling of Macon, Ga., has completed his conquest of the Chicago heavyweight field by a decisive ten round victory over "Tuffy" Griffiths, the tough youth from Sioux City, Ia. As a result he may be recognized by the National Boxing Association at least, as the champion of the world.

The flatte pride of the south, a 2 to 1 favorite before the battle, in the Chicago stadium last night, left no doubt as to his superiority. He won the unanimous decision of Referee Ed Purdy and the judges.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy.

BY ADELE GARRISON

Hugh Grantland's Failure To Send Greetings Clouds Madge's Happiness.

THERE'S no use trying to hide anything from Lillian. She held me off at arm's length after the 'thank you,' with which I had responded to her wish that the Christmas Day would end as happily as it had begun, and sharply scrutinized my face.

"...out of it!" she apostrophized. "You're what the Scotch call 'fey,' I understand. You think it's too perfect to last. Perhaps it is, but the Lord knows there are enough counterirritants and depressing adjuncts, or whatever-you-call-'ems floating around loose to ... the perfection, so you ... fear any let down."

...I did. She did not need to ... the reasons both of us had ... thinking that if causes for sadness and anxiety outside our immediate families would insure a ... Christmas, we might feel ... indeed. Katherine's loneliness, the approaching death of Robert ..., the menace to Noel and ... of Jack Leslie, still eluding ... Underwood's best efforts to ..., the uncertainty of Philip ... attitude toward his son ... and the annoyance to ... personal note which he ..., the vague distrust ... Brixton's husband, and ... which was ours—they ... other in dolorous procession through my mind, winding ... most acute anxiety of ... I realized now, had been ... of my mind all day.

"...realize—?" I said, then ... unwilling to voice ... even to Lillian.

"... have heard nothing ... day," she said. "Yes, ... the first time in many ... a Christmas box hasn't ... him. But, as I told you ... that doesn't prove that ... trouble has happened to ... that sudden summons ... and he left Wilcox in ... his affairs, including ... What skullduggery ... followed immediately after ... I don't know, but it must ... something or the 'capering ...' wouldn't have been ... away and come back to ..."

"But doesn't that show," I argued, as I had done before, "that Wilcox must have been pretty sure Hugh was never coming back? He wouldn't have dared disobey Hugh's orders in regard to Leslie, otherwise."

"As I have told you at least sixteen times before," Lillian retorted, "he would if he'd made up his mind to clean up on Hugh and disappear. I threw out some lines over there, when Leslie first came back. They had some good bait on them, too, but there hasn't been a nibble so far. It's next to impossible to find out anything about Hugh's affairs that he doesn't choose to give out—you know with what secrecy he hedges himself. But I'll find out in time, and meanwhile, I'll ask you to remember that the interior of China just now isn't a place from which it's easy to send out messages or Christmas boxes to the dear ones at home."

"It isn't a particularly safe place for strangers, either," I said, stubbornly.

Lillian's Subterfuge

"You're eminently correct in that little observation", she retorted, "but 'nowhere's safe for nobody, no time.' D'ye remember that aviator who'd been through the war, and fell off the bottom step of his porch, bruised his leg, and died from blood poison? If you never heard of him, contemplate his case now and develop a philosophy. Hugh's all right. I feel it in my bones. I wish I were a sure of the whereabouts and plans of the 'capering cockroach'— Dicky certainly had an inspiration when he called Jack Leslie that. Tell me, do you believe Phil had anything to do with getting Jack Leslie back? It seems almost incredible, but the man's been half mad ever since his plan for Noel's marrying Olina went on the rocks."

I knew that her mention of Leslie was the baldest subterfuge, designed to divert my mind from the gloomy foreboding concerning Hugh Grantland, which had been obsessing me, more or less consciously, all through the Christmas preparations. But, even though I braced myself to apparent calmness, and framed an answer to her question, I could not forget my concern for the most faithful friend, save Lillian, I ever had known. Never since our first dramatic association during the World War, when we had shared perils, and he had saved my life, had he failed to send us a Christmas box with remembrances for Lillian, Marion, Junior and myself.

The Enigma

And always, when he changed his address, in his roving, adventurous life, he had sent me a postcard with the new address written on it, that I might send for him if I needed him. His was a selfless devotion, and Dicky's undeniable rancor toward him was curbed by the remembrance of the two great services he had rendered us, the return of our small boy to us, when he had been kidnaped by Grace Draper, and the rescue of Mary from Jack Leslie. I could not, would not, believe that Hugh had gone into eternity, and that I never should see him again.

I tried hard, however, to let no hint of my anxiety appear in my voice as I answered Lillian's question.

"Just now it seems a Chinese puzzle," I said, "as hard to solve as the riddle of his intentions concerning Mary and Noel. He appears to be mellowing a bit, but who can tell?"

"Nobody, now," Lillian said, raising her arms above her head and flexing them. "Come on, let's stop worrying about everything and go down to visit Goofs No. One and Two."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. Just like Friday. Clammy snow and a gray sky. I got up and let Jubilee down by his rope and went down and milked the cows and the bunch went down to the hill while I went in to feed my face, and I was swallowing my pancakes whole so as to get out as soon as I could when there was a ring and Old Man Scanlun came in. He looked glad when he seen me, and he said he thought he would buy a cow, and would I go with him out to the country to look for one? Before I had time to say I wanted to go sliding my father told him of course I would. So my mother kissed me goodbye, and told me to help all I could. So me and him went out, and he had a horse and an open wagon out in front and we got in the wagon and he drove off and we went up and down hill and up and down hill till it was almost noon, and looked at a lot of cows but he said he wanted a fresh cow, so we kept going. Then we came to a little white farm house and there were a lot of cows around the barn and I got out and opened the gate and he drove in, and he got out and went to the house, then pretty soon he called me, and the house was offal clean inside, and a lady gave me a big bowl of milk and some fried-cakes and the old gentleman and Old Man Scanlun went out to look at a cow. Then they came stamping in and they were laughing and Old Man Scanlun gave him some money and he gave it to the old lady and we buttoned up and went out, and she was a blue cow with a white stripe around her, and he tied a long rope to her halter and told me to set in the back of the wagon and hold the rope and the old man went to open the gate, and Old Man Scanlun hit the horse and the horse jumped and the cow stood still and I went out in the barnyard on my stummick, and it was like all other barnyards and I got soaked. I told him "No sir, I'm not hurt." Then the old man came and tied the rope around the back part of her stummick and brought the end up through halter and said to try that way, and I got yanked out again. Then they said she wouldn't follow a wagon and Old Man Scanlun would have to lead her. So we got out in the road and he told me to go ahead and drive to his house and he would lead her home. I must have tooken the wrong road and the horse wouldn't run, for I drove till after dark setting hunched up feeling of my upper lip with my tongue and wondering where I was at. Then I seen a place I knowed so I knew which road I was on, and the Scanluns were sitting up waiting for me. He gave me a dollar, and some supper, tenderloins, but my folks were in bed when me and Jubilee got home. I was a mess from falling in the barnyard, but I was glad to get upstairs and pull Jubilee up and go to bed. I got a dollar, but it was a hairy Saturday.

CHAPTER 29

Surrender

ON the floor below Fanny lived a young married couple and a small boy of 8 or 9. Fanny had smiled at the child as she passed him on the stairs and one evening soon after her interview with Mr. Philbrick the youngster came to call.

"I'm Mrs. Oliver's little boy and we all think you're awful pretty," was his introduction to Fanny.

"That's very kind of you," smiled Fanny, "and what is your name?"

"Ellsworth Sherman. And I'll punch anyone's nose who calls me Elly." He was quite at ease, roamed about Fanny's room, his sharp dark eyes appraising her belongings.

"Ellsworth Sherman," repeated Fanny, wondering why his last name wasn't Oliver. He continued the amenities.

"My mother's divorced. Dick Oliver is my stepfather. He brings me candy and eats it up himself. My real father can run any kind of automobile there is. Are you divorced?"

"No," said Fanny quickly. "What a pretty tie that is."

"My mama gave me that. But you're separated from your husband, aren't you?"

Fanny swallowed, stared miserably at her small inquisitor and recognized the futility of trying to head him off.

"Yes," she said as man to man, "but I don't like to talk about it."

This was received with blank amazement. Questions evidently trembled on the tip of her visitor's tongue but he remembered his manners and heroically suppressed them.

"My father's an illustrator," he went on, determined to put Fanny at her ease. "Dick's an illustrator too, but he doesn't make much ... father couldn't get married ... summer because he had to ... out. But now Mama's got ... he's going to."

What a ter[illegible] his [illegible] ... gave me a steam engine on my birthday. Dick says she's all applesauce now but we'll see a change once she's married. Dick's awful afraid Ada won't let me stay with them half the time like the judge said I was to."

"I'm sure your mama will be awfully glad if she won't," said Fanny warmly.

"Well, of course she and Dick haven't been married but five months. I suppose they do get tired of me sometimes." The small brown face was suddenly wistful.

There was a hard lump in Fanny's throat.

"I know your mamma never gets tired of you," she said positively. "And if you go to stay with your father I know she will count every day until you come back."

Her caller's face brightened.

"She say's I'm to come to dinner every week with her and Dick. She says she doesn't know which she loves best, me or Dick. And next to us she loves my father. They're not like my Aunt Bessie and her first husband. They fight so we can't have them for dinner together. Do you fight with Mr. Frost?"

"No," said Fanny hastily. "Would you like to look at some of my books with pictures in them?"

"Not particularly. I'd rather talk. Dick says I talk too much. Do you think I do?"

"Not at all," said Fanny weakly. A few minutes afterward Ellsworth's mother came for him. Fanny had expected something rather awful but found Mrs. Oliver small and dainty, sweet-faced and low-voiced with big [illegible] eyes and yellow curls [illegible] close to her head.

The following week Fanny [illegible] ... [illegible] a tremendous vogue. We've been waiting an hour for Ada but her roommate just called up and said she was sick. The party will be a flop unless you come down and take Ada's place. Won't you, please?"

It was a windy winter's night; Fanny's room was cold. Appetizing odors of steak and onion, mingled with the aroma of coffee, had dogged Mrs. Oliver's footsteps up the stairway. Fanny hesitated, allowed herself to be persuaded, dressed hastily and went down.

The Olivers' apartment boasted a small bedroom, in which Ellsworth had been put to bed, a kitchenette, and a combination studio, dining and living room.

The famous creator of Felton clowns was a little fat man with an incongruous bullet head and outstanding ears. Fanny had read that he made $100,000 a year, and that this wife was his second, to whom he had recently returned. Imagine David's scorn and contempt!

It was a thoroughly successful party. Between courses [illegible] Oliver played a jews'-harp. George Felton sang, in a nasal tenor, lugubrious cowboy songs, which for some reason were excruciatingly funny.

That evening long remained a joyous memory to Fanny. But as she climbed the stairs to her room an old ache came back. She had not ever missing David, recovered entirely she thought from a stabbing loneliness when she was tired or frightened or wakened in the night. Now she found herself longing persistently to share the fun of the evening with him.

David, however, would never have approved of the Olivers. He would have been disgusted at the tangled status quo.

Fanny was a little shocked herself, but she liked the Olivers and Ben Sherman. Yet her heart ached for the little boy. Some way, she could not have explained just why, she felt vaguely sorry for them all.

Later Fanny asked herself what a child, reared in such a casual atmosphere, would think of marriage when he grew up. If Mrs. Oliver fell out of love again and married a third time, would she love Mr. Oliver next best to her new husband? And where would Ellsworth and Ben Sherman come in? If one took marriage lightly—got divorced without any real cause—followed every beckoning fancy — why shouldn't a woman have half a dozen husbands, and a man a dozen ... wives? And if they all remained friends, and all went to parties together and had children by this marriage and that, where would it all end?

That night Fanny made up her mind to fight no further for Sheila. Whether she liked the Brownbecks or not they were not cheap. They had a permanence. One could build on the foundations they had laid—Sheila must so build.

There had been no dignity in her flight, no real excuse for smashing her marriage. She could see it now. It was right that David should have Sheila.

The pang of that decision was as if it rent apart soul and body, but an uplift too came with it. Her spiritual acquiescence went deep and entitled her to a sense of spiritual regeneration that brought in time a certain peace of its own.

The divorce went forward on well greased wheels. There was no contest and David was granted his freedom on the ground of abandonment, with the custody of his minor child. Fanny had taken back her maiden name. There was no longer a Fanny Frost.

David's uncle, Judson Brownbeck, died three days after the granting of the divorce.

To Be Continued.

ED WYNN IS RIOT OF LAUGHS; STARS IN PICTURE AT PALACE

Lives Up to Title of "Perfect Fool" as Restaurant Waiter.

HUGHES O'SULLIVAN

THEY don't make 'em any crazier than Ed Wynn, the star of "Follow the Leader" which opened last night at the Palace and which will be shown again today.

Wynn has been dubbed "the perfect fool" and he lives up to his appellation in this picture, which is based on his stage success, "Manhattan Mary." There's nothing to the story but Wynn's clownishness keeps the audience in a panic.

He is a waiter, chef and whatnot in "Ma" Brennan's restaurant, but he quits three times a week to try to land a job on the stage. He fails to click but he does succeed in getting "Ma" Brennan's daughter, Mary, a job as understudy to a revue star and when the latter is kidnaped by Wynn, Mary becomes the hit of the show.

Mary is played by Ginger Rogers. Stanley Smith of "Sweetie" fame and Lou Holtz, Broadway comedian, have other prominent parts in the picture which was arranged through courtesy of Flo Ziegfeld.

An all-barkie comedy, "Hot Dog," is an able adjunct to the bill, while "Mysterious Mose" is a creepy, ghostly talkartoon. The Fox Movietone News and Regal Spenser's work at the organ complete the program. G. W.

A gassed veteran who, after his return to this country, kills a former German soldier whose life he spared twice on the battlefield, stands trial for his life and the jury is asked to determine whether he is guilty.

This, in brief, is the story of "Blaze o' Glory," a Sono Art picture in which Eddie Dowling is starred and which is billed for final showings at the Ohio tonight. The picture opened Thursday.

The killing is done in a blind rage and the unwritten law at first is given as the veteran's defense. An investigation however, discloses that the ex-German soldier has offered to send Dowling to a lung specialist out of appreciation for having saved his life on the battlefield.

Graham McNamee's talking newsreel, a comedy and several Vitaphone acts, are other features on the bill.

EL BRENDEL FINDS STRANGE THINGS IN VISIT TO 1980 CITY

"Just Imagine" Coming to Palace Theater Beginning Sunday.

BY HALLIE HOUCK

JUST imagine El Brendel an old fogey of 1930 wondering around in America of 1980." El is one of the big reasons for "Just Imagine" at the Palace Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

DeSylva, Brown and Henderson, creators of the entertaining "Sunny Side Up," are responsible for this wildly fantastic stretch of the imagination. The three men wrote the story, dialog and songs.

In 1980 we'll all be known by numbers instead of names. Witness Maureen O'Sullivan as LN-18, John Garrick as J-21, Marjorie White as D-5 and El Brendel as vacuously numbered Single 0.

"It's something new, it's something different, folks," shouts the barker after he's watched El as a stowaway on a rocket plane to Mars.

Brendel, who has the leading role, says that making people laugh is hard work, usually. "What will people laugh at?" "The other fellow's troubles, mostly, if they are not made to seem too serious."

OLIVE BORDEN STARS IN "HELLO SISTER"

Olive Borden stars in "Hello Sister" at the Ohio Sunday and Monday, with Lloyd Hughes, always to us one of the perfect gentlemen of the screen, playing opposite.

Jimmy Cruze, who has a long list of success to his credit, is now James Cruze, Inc., with this picture as one of his releases. The vast estate of the Flintridge, Calif., riding club, with its modern paddocks, grand stand, polo grounds, steeple chase park and attendance structures were used as the background for the story.

George Fawcett another of the screen's "grand old men," has an important part in the picture as the grandfather of the pleasure-loving modern girl.

"Clipped Wings" by Rita Lampert, a story which ran in a popular monthly woman's magazine, provides the plot for the picture.

GILBERT TRYS VOICE BEFORE MICROPHONE

It remains to be seen at the Marion Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, just how John Gilbert has made out with his voice lessons. Gilbert, for all his appeal to feminine hearts couldn't talk to the microphone, and a rather raspy voice can't be taken seriously in a love scene.

He comes back to the screen after a long absence in a man's picture, "Way for a Sailor." His leading woman, Leila Hyams, should be a help in carrying along the picture.

Wallace Beery has a featured role. For the first time in his career, Gilbert will appear minus the makeup and mustache. Polly Moran and Jim Tully, the man by the way, with whom Gilbert had a "knock-down and drag-out" fight in a Hollywood club not so long before this picture was begun have comedy parts. Tully and Gilbert patched up their quarrel and Tully got a part in Gilbert's picture.

MAIN STREET BACK IN COURT

Arguments Heard on Motion To Certify Records to Supreme Judges.

Whether the state supreme court will review the injunction suit brought by Llewellyn Aller, contractor, against the city of Marion in the Main street paving case will be decided by the court in the near future. Arguments were made before the court this week on motion to certify the records of lower courts.

B. F. Roller of the law firm of Ochs & Roller represented the plaintiff when the motion was argued before the court, while City Solicitor Carter Patton represented the city. Attorney W. P. Moloney was counsel for P. Drake & Son, the contracting firm to whom the Main street paving award was objected by Aller.

The case first was fought in common pleas court here when Judge George B. Scofield issued a permanent injunction against the city restraining the latter from awarding the contract to the Drake firm on the grounds that the latter's bid for the contract was $7,000 higher than Aller's.

Later the third district court of appeals overruled the decision and set aside the injunction on grounds that a court has no jurisdiction over the award of public contracts.

Aller had approximately $60,000 for the contract and the Drake firm entered a bid of $57,000. The work recently was completed.

When the case first was heard, the city defended its action in awarding the contract to the Drake firm on the grounds that it held the latter organization to be more reputable.

THREE YOUTHS HELD IN THFFT OF GUNS

Counters of Stores Here Raided for Firearms and Ammunition.

The amateurish crime careers of three Marion youths were believed to have been halted permanently today when the trio was sent to the detention home following a hearing yesterday before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast.

When hailed into court they confessed to having stolen several guns and a quantity of 22 rifle bullets all taken from local hardware stores. The firearms were confiscated by the court.

Three other youths were implicated in the thefts. But later were released by the court.

All of the firearms were stolen before the eyes of the proprietors while the youths paraded through the stores. Judge Gast said. He has warned the latter to maintain a sharper watch on their display counters.

The court was undecided today as to the final disposition of the cases.

HUSBAND JOINS WIFE IN JAIL FOR BURGLARY

APPREHENDED IN TOLEDO

Woman Confesses Three Marion Crimes to Wyandot County Sheriff.

Special To The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 13—Allen Cunningham today joined his wife in the Wyandot county jail here to await action of the next session of the grand jury for the burglary of a local filling station two weeks ago. They gave their home as Cardington.

He pleaded guilty to the burglary charge when arraigned here today. He was held under $5,000 bond. His wife, who was arrested several weeks ago, was held under $1,000 bond. Cunningham also is reported to have confessed to the burglary of the Beidler Hardware store.

Cunningham was apprehended in Toledo Thursday night and returned to Upper Sandusky late yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Raymond Stansbery and Night Patrolman N. H. Link.

Woman Confesses

With the arrest of the pair, local authorities believe they have solved numerous burglaries in this district.

Mrs. Cunningham confessed that she and her husband looted the Beidler Hardware store several weeks ago of five guns and a quantity of ammunition, attaches of the sheriff's office said. The guns were later located in a Toledo pawnship through a ticket in her possession.

It also was reported here that the couple participated in burglaries of a filling station, the Dugan Clothing store and an A. & P. store at Marion. The automobile in which the couple were riding the night of the burglary here was stolen in Kenton.

Mrs. Cunningham was arrested by a night patrolman when he surprised them carrying loot from the filling station. Mr. Cunningham escaped.

After admitting the two burglaries here, Cunningham denied that the car in his possession had been stolen. A check on this angle of his story was being made by authorities today.

Former Marion Woman

Mrs. Cunningham, it was revealed today, formerly lived in Marion. She is said to have moved from there three years ago. Her parents are living south of Cardington at the present time. His home is in Toledo.

When arrested in Toledo he was working at a police station. The exact nature of the position could not be learned. Sheriff Raymond Whitte of Bowling Green called at the police station in Toledo Thursday. He saw Cunningham and recognized him as the man sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory two years ago on a burglary charge. Completing his identification he notified authorities in Wyandot county.

Cunningham told questioners here that he had committed the burglaries to obtain funds to tide him over during a period of unemployment. He said he had been seeking a position with an oil company with no success.

The Marion angle of the case will be gone into more thoroughly, it was indicated today. Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock of Marion has planned to question the couple next week.

WHITE SILENT ON CABINET CHOICES

Governor-Elect Says Some of Aids Likely To Be Named Next Week.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13—Political observers here today were completely baffled by a most unusual situation with regard to Governor-elect George White's cabinet selections and other appointments.

Heretofore, tips from either the governor-elect or from persons in close touch with the newly-chosen executive permitted political observers a pretty good inkling as to the possible makeup of the new administrations.

Governor-elect White, however, has kept the state mystified as to the men he is or has been, considering for positions in his cabinet. Political prognosticators are "in the dark."

Several names have been tossed into the pile of possibilities, but none has received either confirmation or denial from the governor-elect or his confidants.

Before leaving Friday evening for Washington to attend the annual Gridiron dinner given by Washington newspaper correspondents, White said he expected to announce some of his cabinet appointments next week.

SPANISH TROOPS WIN IN CLASH WITH REBELS

Prisoners, Equipment Taken in Battle; General Reports Revolt Checked.

By The Associated Press

MADRID, Dec. 13 — In a furious battle near the town of Ayerbe at dawn today federal troops took a hundred prisoners, seized rebel equipment and drove a revolting regiment of infantry back upon the garrison town of Jaca, where rebellion flared yesterday.

General Berenguer, the prime minister asserted that the engagement had terminated the revolt and that federal troops were in control of the Jaca area.

The prime minister made this announcement after a brief audience with King Alfonso this morning. The loyal troops from Saragossa, he said, continued a march on Jaca after the battle.

So far as could be learned in the face of demoralized communications the mutiny had not spread beyond the province of Huesca where the rebels, variously estimated at between 1,000 and 6,000, had massed their forces.

The mutineers, censored information indicated, had only such arms and equipment as could be seized in the Jaca garrison, and the government professed confidence that the revolt would be put down speedily.

There were unverified reports that the uprising had extended to Saragossa, where Major Ramon Franco, the picturesque aviator, was said to be at the head of the movement, but virtually all telephone and telegraph communication with that area was cut off.

There were rumors also that the rebels were holding six federal officers as hostages; threatening summary execution if loyal troops moved into battle. The report was that these captures had been made during the night while the rebels marched from Jaca to Ayerbe, where a night skirmish preceded this morning's battle.

First official reports of the casualties in the battle which raged

Reports indicate that Major Ramon Franco, noted Spanish aviator who recently escaped from federal prison, is leading a section of the rebellious military force which started a revolt yesterday. Franco was in prison for alleged offenses against the government.

BILL IS CUT TO $116,000,000

Agreement Reached by Senate and House Members in Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — Conferees on the $118,000,000 emergency public works bill reduced the total appropriations today to $116,000,000 and restored the house provisions to permit the President to use the specified sums interchangeably.

The conferees also eliminated the senate amendment requiring that local labor be employed on all relief projects.

The reduction in total appropriations was brought about by cutting down from $5,000,000 to $3,000,000 the senate amendment for work on unreserved public roads.

Before the bill went to conference the senate had increased the bill's total to $118,000,000, and knocked out the clause granting power to the president to shift funds from one project to another. This change was viewed by the administration as likely to cut down actual relief and the house has disagreed with all the senate's amendments.

The drouth bill, amended in committee to appropriate only $30,000,000 for loans none of it applicable to food purchases, is to come up in the house Monday or Tuesday under the most stringent procedure the leaders can obtain. They are seeking to keep the senate's $60,000,000 figure from getting tangled in the proceedings.

A week-end recess served today to postpone further moves in the delicate situation between President Hoover and the Senate.

Until next week also was passed

By United Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 13—The famous smile of Charles (Buddy) Rogers, motion picture star, was gone today as he lay in Toledo hospital where, at 8 a. m., he underwent an operation for acute appendicitis.

CHARLES ROGERS

At 9 a. m. attendants at the hospital said he was "resting comfortably" and that his condition was in every way favorable.

Physicians said that apparently Rogers had been suffering for many months but had concealed his agony from everyone because of his desire to continue on his personal tour and not disappoint his audiences.

Yesterday, two hours before he was to leave for Hollywood, he was seized with pain so intense that his secretary, Max Schall, became alarmed and summoned a physician.

Buddy was sent at once to the hospital, where his condition was ascertained.

COLUMBUS MAN BELIEVED IN HOLDUP HERE

GRILLED BY DETECTIVES

Think Man May Have Been in Number of Other Holdups in Vicinity.

That Harry Gordon alias Stanley Sharlis, 28, arrested in Columbus this morning after an unsuccessful attempt at banditry is the man who held up the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co. office here early this week appeared almost a certainty at noon today, following a grilling of the man by Columbus detectives. Gordon is a Columbus man.

Admissions made since his capture may link him with a number of robberies in and around Marion, authorities believe. He was being quizzed this afternoon as police and detectives probed deeper into his recent history.

Word that Gordon has been virtually identified as the perpetrator of the local holdup was received here by Acting Police Chief Ira Shrock from Columbus detectives today.

Gordon was captured by Columbus police after a pistol duel, following an unsuccessful attempt to steal the payroll of the Mazer-Crossman Cigar Co. factory, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Columbus police were in communication with local authorities regarding the local holdup after Gordon's arrest this morning. The holdup netted the bandit more than $80.

The money was taken from the office here during the noon hour, after C. C. Steward, superintendent, had left the office. The bandit threatened Miss Dorothy Hite, 18, a stenographer, with a gun while he emptied the cash drawer.

He was captured this morning after he entered the offices of the cigar company to which a payroll for 1,400 employes had just been delivered. Another waited outside in an automobile.

When a crowd assembled, the driver fled, deserting Gordon. Several shots were exchanged by police and the fugitive before he was captured.

URBANA HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING DESTROYED

350 Pupils Left Without Quarters as Old Structure Burns.

By The Associated Press

URBANA, O., Dec. 13—The old $75,000 Urbana High school building was destroyed by fire early today. Firemen, unable to save the building, allowed the flames to burn and concentrated their efforts on preventing them from spreading to the nearby new high school building, erected at a cost of $100,000.

Origin of the blaze was not determined. No one was injured.

The Urbana board of education met today to select temporary rooms for the 350 children who attended the school building.

The building, noted throughout the country for its strange architecture which included great spires and towers, similar to European castles, burned on the 34th anniversary of a fire that destroyed the structure that formerly occupied the plot.

School officials said they carried $54,000 insurance on the building and its contents but estimated that more than $100,000 would be needed for reconstruction.

ARMY DEFEATS NAVY ELEVEN

Stecker Makes Touchdown on Long Run for Only Score; Count Is 6 to 0.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Dec. 13—Army defeated Navy, 6 to 0, in their charity football game here today when Ray Stecker, halfback, staged a spectacular 57-yard run for a touchdown in the final quarter for the only score of the game. Broushous, attempting the extra point on a dropkick, failed.

The gridiron forces of the two service institutions met for the first time after a three-year lapse over an eligibility controversy.

After the score, Navy had a chance to put over a touchdown when the Middies recovered Bowman's fumble on the Army 37-yard line, but after making a first down on the 25-yard mark the Annapolis eleven lost the oval and its chance to gain at least a tie was thrown away.

First Half Scoreless

It was a struggle between two hard-scrapping defensive machines for most of the first half after Navy successfully repulsed two early scoring threats by the Army. The first Cadet charge was thrown back on the 14-yard line. The second bogged down on the Navy's 13-yard line, as passes hurled by Ray Stecker were grounded behind the goal lines each time.

Navy was in a desperate hole at this stage as a bad pass from center was recovered for a 19-yard loss on the Middie one-yard line, but Captain "Blimp" Bowstrom punted out of range from behind his own goal line.

The Sailors in the first half displayed less attacking power and did not threaten to score, penetrating Army territory only once.

Before the game it was estimated the gate receipts would exceed $600,000.

The big American league park was not filled to its capacity of 80,000 but there were few vacant patches in the colorful throng surrounding the gridiron.

Bradshaw Youth Dies In City Hospital Without Regaining Consciousness.

DRIVER OF CAR NOT HELD

Lad Was One of 10 Children of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bradshaw.

Fatal injuries were sustained by Luther Colvin Bradshaw, 10, of 416 Park street when he ran into the path of an automobile on North Main street late yesterday.

Four hours after he was struck by a Ford coach driven by J. L. Gore of 474 Silver street, the boy died in City hospital from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Driver Not Held

Gore is not being held, as witnesses say the accident was unavoidable.

Gore was driving south on Main street at a slow speed, and had just crossed the railroad tracks at Mill street when the accident occurred yesterday afternoon at 5:20, he said. His attention was attracted to a Western Union messenger boy who was riding a bicycle between his car and automobiles parked at the curb.

The car just passed the intersection of Main and Mill street when the Bradshaw youth came running into the street from between two automobiles parked at the west curb. His body struck the right front fender and bumper of the Gore car. Gore swerved sharply to the left and avoided passing over the boy's body.

The boy was rendered unconscious, and did not regain consciousness. He was taken to City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance. He died last night at 9:20.

Gore was ordered to appear at police station this morning, but no charge was placed against him.

One of 10 Children

The boy was one of 10 children, several of whom are married. He was a student in the third grade at the State Street school.

He was born Oct. 24, 1920, in Fredericktown to L. C. and Elizabeth Townsend Bradshaw, who survive him with his brothers and sisters, Mrs. Eddie Shirk of 135 Nye street, Helen, Mazel, Dorothy, James, Grace, Audrey May and Betty Jane at home and Mrs. Aubrey Nash of 346 South Prospect street. Mrs. Nash is a half-sister. His grandmother, Mrs. Alma A. Bradshaw lives at 746 Davids street.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at the Boyd funeral home on South Main street in charge of Rev. H. E. Williamson, pastor of Oakland Evangelical church. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery. Friends may view the body at the funeral home.

"CRY BABY" BANDIT TRIO DIE IN CHAIR

Youths Who Wept Profusely During Trial Are Calm at Execution.

By The Associated Press

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 13—Three "cry baby bandits," youths who shed tears profusely during their trial, were executed last night for the slaying of a Long Island druggist.

James Bolger, 19, James Butler, 20, and Italo Ferdinandi, 22, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison after Governor Roosevelt had refused to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

Butler was the first to go. He made no statement.

Ferdinandi was the next. "Hello, gentleman," he said. "May God forgive me for what I have done. Bless my mother, father and sweetheart."

Bolger ended the procession. He strode in with his hands in the pockets. "I die like I lived," he remarked, "with a smile on my face."

Governor Roosevelt said their guilt had been established beyond doubt and that although they were initial offenders, they had confessed to seven robberies for which they had not been convicted.

The youths were convicted of killing Charles Bauer in a holdup at Westbury, N. Y., on Feb. 4. Their defense was that Bauer was accidentally shot.

Children Turn Out in Huge Throng for Toy Party at Palace Theater

DEMURE looking dolls took time out from keeping a wary eye on the fire trucks, the woolly bears and the treacherous looking airplanes, to glance at the holiday outfit of her sophisticated sister, and Uncle Wiggily looked positively lost without Nurse Fuzzy in the vast assortment of toys contributed by between 1,300 and 1,400 children which turned the lobby of the Palace theater into a temporary real palace of toys this morning.

The occasion was the children's theater party sponsored by the management of the Palace and a committee working with the Welfare commissary of the Family Welfare society, and the toys represented the children's gifts to other less fortunate children and at the same time provided them with a password to the show.

It was a busy day for the committee and the theater management who were on hand to see that the children were directed safely into the theater and well cared for while there, and to care for the toys. The city firemen, with Chief T. J. McFarland in charge, loaded the toys into city trucks to be taken to the Y. M. C. A. where they will be sorted, reconditioned and wrapped for the needy children of the city. The pictures which included some rollicking

CAPTIVE 'LEGGERS QUIZZED AT TOLEDO

Federal Officers Launch Drive Against Reported Craft Operations.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 13—The government today was questioning the first contingent of bootleggers caught in a sweeping campaign directed to learn whether law violators were buying organized "protection."

More than 20 persons, five of them women, were under arrest following yesterday's raid by 55 federal agents mobilized from four states under the direction of Edward J. O'Brien of Detroit, United States special agent.

O'Brien said he expected questioning of those held to support reports that law violators paid thousands of dollars annually to be permitted to flourish. The raids followed a six-months' undercover investigation by federal agents who said they had purcased liquor at all the places visited.

Lee N. Murlin, United States district attorney, announced that a total of 50 warrants have been sworn out, but "higher-ups" will not be arrested until they are indicted by the grand jury, unless they attempt to flee the city.

the final cleanup of the administration unemployment and drouth relief program, upon which the two branches of congress must get together.

The possibility still existed that President Hoover might strike again at his congressional opponents somewhat as he did last Tuesday when he told the country what he thought of moves which interfere with his program. This prospect did not fail to stir uneasiness among his senate supporters.

Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, hastened to assert there was no real division between his group and Mr. Hoover and that he had served no ultimatum in the request Thursday that the President help his senate aides by letting them in on plans for any such maneuvers as last Tuesday's attack.

Dozens of Warrants Issued in Round of Agitators.

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Dec. 13—Proceeding quietly, the government is making numerous arrests of agitators whom it believes responsible for the disturbances of the last few days which have provoked the island-wide suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Dozens of warrants have been obtained against leading Nationalist figures and others prominent in the anti-administration movement. A hurried exodus to the United States on the part of many whose names are on the list for arrest and trial has been noted. Many have been unable to escape.

Some newspapermen accused of exaggerating and falsifying reports on disorders have been arrested.

Juan Maza Y Artola, former congressman and professor at the National university, is among those arrested.

With the exception of brief rioting yesterday at the Cienfuegos, in Santa Clara province, the island remained quiet. The military was called upon to quell riots there and now is in control of the city.

Scientist Says Sunshine To Be Utilized for Power

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Dec 13 Dr Robert A Millikan physicist said today that science already knows enough to outline a method of getting power out of sunshine

He predicted this will be done when coal and oil sources are exhausted in an address before the Association of Life Insurance presidents

He said one other possible continuous source of energy exists in hydrogen from sea water but with no known way of using it

"For the past century" he said men have been using the sunshine bottled up in coal and oil in bygone ages and this reserve will do for us and our children but what then? The answer is here and it is not a hopeless one

"It is this there is enough energy sent us each day by the sun for all our needs those present now and those reasonably in prospect and without calling upon stored-up supplies of any kind Two modern countries in our latitude receive from the sun in a day as much heat as is produced by all the coal burned in 24 hours through the world

"Further we now know enough already to be able to outline the main methods by which to go to work to utilize this inflow of sunshine It cannot be done without work or without brains That alone makes it worth doing But it is ... an ... reason that prevents us from ... sunshine ... now We are not likely to utilize it appreciably so long as coal and oil and gas are as abundant and accessible as now

Two Churches To Present Selections From "Messiah"

Epworth, Trinity Baptist Plan Musical Programs

Congregations To Observe Christmas Season with Services Based on Handel's Famous Religious Composition; Solo and Chorus Numbers To Be Features.

Two Marion churches, Epworth M E and Trinity Baptist are entering into the Christmas season Sunday night with musical services of excerpts from George Frederick Handel's beautiful religious oratorio, "The Messiah." Epworth church has given it's service the theme, "Handel's Contribution to Religion."

"The Messiah" had its origin in one of the darkest moments of Handel's life. His operatic enterprises had not been successful, and in depressed spirits, with his fortune gone, he began the great series of oratorios by which his genius lives today.

Separate Services

While the churches are holding separate services, the programs of music will include many of the same choruses and recitatives.

Mrs W. W. Koppe, soprano, Mrs. A. M. Hunter, alto, W. W. Koppe, tenor and Knox Dunlop, bass, will sing the solo numbers in the Epworth choir, which is under the direction of Mr. Dunlop.

Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence will preside at the organ and Mrs. F. A. Boyer will be at the piano, accompanying the singing.

T R Evans will direct the Trinity choir. Preceding the music, Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor, will give a brief address.

Soloists at Trinity will be Mrs R O. Bressler, organist, Harwood Taylor, baritone, Mrs. W. R. Roberts, contralto and Mrs. T R Evans, soprano. The following choruses and solos will be sung by the Trinity choir of 30 members:

Chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord," recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord," air, "But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming?" chorus, "For Unto Us a Child is Born," recitatives, "There Were Shepherds Abiding in the Fields," "And Lo! the Angel of the Lord Came Upon Them," "And the Angel Said Unto Them," "And Suddenly There Was An Angel," chorus, "Glory to God in the Highest;" recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened," air, "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd;" chorus, "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs," chorus, "Hallelujah!"

Mrs. Bressler will play an organ prelude in opening the program, after which the congregation will join in singing "Joy to the World." Scripture, prayer and short announcements will be followed by the offertory, "Pastoral Symphony" from "The Messiah," by Mrs. Bressler.

Rev. Wood will present his address after which the choir and soloists will present the above program. Postlude by Mrs. Bressler and benediction by Rev. Wood will close the service.

SCHAFFNER'S

NTH MAIN AND CHURCH STS. "MARION, OHIO

A Holy Name

A SERMONETTE

By Rev. James W. Schillinger, Pastor, Emanuel's Lutheran Church

Text: "Hallowed be thy name." Matth. 6:9.

ONE hundred and fifty-one years ago General George Washington issued the following order to the Revolutionary army. "Headquarters at West Point, July 29, 1779. Many and pointed orders have been issued against the unmeaning and abominable custom of swearing notwithstanding which, with much regret, the General observes that it prevails, if possible, more than ever; his feelings are continually wounded by the oaths and imprecations of the soldiers whenever he is in hearing of them. The Name of the Being from whose bountiful goodness we are permitted to exist and enjoy the comforts of life is incessantly imprecated and profained in a manner as wanton as it is shocking. For the sake, therefore, of religion, decency and order, the General hopes and trusts that officers of every rank will use their influence and authority to check a vice which is as unprofitable as it is wicked and shameful. Signed, George Washington, Commander-in-Chief."

Here we have another evidence that the father of our country was a devout Christian gentleman. His heart was filled with a deep reverence for everything sacred. The profane use of God's name on the part of his soldiers deeply wounded his reverent heart.

There is perhaps no greater evidence of the religious and moral decline of our age than the constantly increasing profanity which is evident everywhere. Young Americans who honor George Washington would do well to obey the above order of the commander-in-chief, which rings just as true today, as when it was issued a hundred and fifty-one years ago.

If we feel constrained to honor an order of the father of our country, how much more to obey a command of our Father God. His command is: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." It is simply incomprehensible that men who believe in God as a loving heavenly Father, and in His Son Jesus Christ who in pure love shed His blood on the cross for the sins of the world, should insult Him by profaning His holy name.

HARTLEY FREED OF BOXCAR BURGLARY

Jury Acquits Man of Charge in Indictment; Out 12 Minutes.

Clayton Hartley today was freed of the charge of burglary of a railroad car when a jury in common pleas court yesterday found him not guilty on the indictment returned against him last week by the Marion county grand jury.

The jury deliberated only 12 minutes in reaching its verdict. The case was begun yesterday morning.

Because Hartley was found not guilty, it was said the indictment against Alva McEldowney, his partner, will be nolled. McEldowney's trial was scheduled for next Wednesday.

Hartley claimed from the witness stand yesterday that he and McEldowney were attempting to hop a ride on an Erie freight train when they were arrested by a detective. The latter admitted on the stand that he did not see the men break into the car which they were charged with entering.

Russell M. Wilhelm and L. E. Myers, represented the defendant and Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donithen handled the case for the state.

COUNTY GETS $64,000 TAX

Income from Gasoline Tax Increase $14,000 in Year Here.

Townships in Marion county will receive a total of $6,000 or $400 each, as their share of the final state gasoline tax distribution for 1930, a check for that amount having been received today by County Auditor Earl F. Thomas.

At the same time the county received a check for $8,500 as its final slice of the gas tax melon for the year, Thomas said.

The county has received a total of $64,000 for the year from this source, while the townships benefitted by $21,000, of which $1,400 went to each of the 15. The $64,000 received by the county was $14,000 higher than last year. There is no basis of comparison for the townships, since they did not begin to share in the gasoline tax until the middle of last year.

City Auditor Luther Landis today had not received the city's share of the tax but expected a check within the next few days, he said.

Townships may use their share for any road purpose they desire, while the county and city must use their gas tax money only for maintenance and improvement.

The two brothers arrived in Lovelock, town of 1,200 population on the overland route of the Southern Pacific railroad, with 12 sacks of the ore which they had found. It assayed $5 per pound. Three prize sacks, known as "picture rock", showed a value of $46,276 a ton. Based on these figures the brothers had already acquired a small fortune.

activities was reached last Wednesday afternoon when the organization exemplified juvenile degree work in a deputy matrons session of the Ohio State Grange convention.

Although organized little more than a year ago, this juvenile grange has a large membership, and possesses full juvenile regalia.

The grange was organized Sept. 8, 1929, with 16 charter members. Mrs. R. T. Thew was installed as matron, and Charles Riley, Jr., as master.

Its first piece of public work was to take charge of a Christmas program of the Grand Prairie grange a year ago. First community work was done when the juvenile grange raised funds to purchase food for needy children in the Grand Prairie school.

In June State Master Walter F. Kirk of Port Clinton attended a meeting in which 85 members of Grand Prairie grange were made honorary members of the juvenile grange.

Mrs. E. A. Williams, deputy matron for Marion county, gave this juvenile grange a 100 per cent score for its year's work.

The junior organization meets on the second floor of the Grand Prairie school building. It has about 30 members.

CHILDREN TURN OUT IN THRONG AT PARTY

comedies, news reel, and a serial, together with the use of the house was donated by Art Smith manager, and employes of the house contributed their services together with Regal Spenser, organist who led the children in singing. Assisting in the lobby were the Girl Reserves from Vernon Heights school and Boy Scouts.

The children were welcomed by Mayor Don Jones who gave a short talk in which he complimented them for their fine spirit of giving and told of the happiness which their gifts would bring to less fortunate children of the city.

And then the entertainment began with the singing which certainly must have been music to Regal Spenser. Adults fortunate enough to be in on the party, standing in the rear of the theater, took a couple of seconds to catch their breath and feel their ears at the way the youngsters swung into such numbers as "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and another about the mocking birds singing.

A meeting of Dr. Fred A. Stengel and his committee will be held Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. at which time plans will be completed for caring for the toys and their distribution. City firemen and Boy Scouts will assist in reconditioning the toys and girls from the domestic science departments of the schools will dress the dolls.

The committee has asked that all organizations wishing to have children remembered through them, get in touch with some member or leave the name, age and address of the child at the Y. M. C. A. The toys will be distributed to the children Christmas morning by the Central Delivery Co., whose management and employes have contributed their services.

COURT NEWS

Wants Compensation

Compensation for an injury allegedly sustained while an employe of the Pollak Steel Co. here on March 2, 1927, is asked in a petition filed by Webster Bushong yesterday in common pleas court against the state industrial commission.

The petition declares that the commission twice denied the plaintiff his application for workmen's compensation.

The injury which the plaintiff claims to have received was a broken right leg, sustained when an iron bar fell on the member. He has since been unable to work, he says.

Eugene B. Wetherill and Carter W. Schwemmer of Kenton represent the plaintiff.

HONOR SENATOR

Officials Headed by Hoover Pay Farewell Tribute to Overman.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—The President, the cabinet, supreme court, the entire senate membership and countless other officials bid farewell last night to Senator Overman of North Carolina. They gathered around his casket.

"We loved him and we all mourn his passing," said Vice President Curtis. Rev. Dr. Z. B. Phillips, the senate chaplain delivered a funeral oration. The veteran Democratic senator died suddenly yesterday morning in his seventy-seventh year.

Today they were taking his body to Salisbury, N. C., which was his home even though he had been part of Washington for more than a quarter of a century. He was in the senate 28 years.

VICTIM OF STRANGE ILLNESS IN RELAPSE

Mrs. Harley Cook of Morral in Deep Coma After Over Exertion at Home.

Mrs. Harley Cook of Morral, one of the victims of snake weed poisoning in cow's milk in September, is in a deep coma at City hospital, and is not expected to live.

Mrs. Cook was responding encouragingly to treatment, but over exertion in caring for Mr. Cook when he was ill brought about a relapse. Several days ago she suffered a second relapse and at noon yesterday went into the deep coma from which she has not rallied. She was brought to City hospital last night, but Dr. J. G. McNamara, the attending physician, said this morning that there was slight hope for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook and her mother, Mrs. Mary Redd of near Ashley, were all stricken mysteriously ill in September. Maxine Cook, their 15-year-old daughter, died of the strange malady before it was diagnosed as milk sickness, caused when the family drank milk from cows that had eaten snake weed, a rare plant in this section of the state.

Mr. Cook suffered a short relapse and it was at this time that Mrs. Cook began to over-exert herself in order to care for him and her household duties. Mrs. Redd is improving.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Roseberry of Marion R. F. D. No. 8, are the parents of a son born last night at City hospital. Both the mother and son are resting comfortably.

SCHOOL DINNER

About $60 was netted in the benefit cafeteria supper sponsored by the Forest Lawn Parent-Teachers association last night at the school building. Children of the school will present a Christmas program Thursday night at the school building, it is announced.

St. Augustine's Interpretation

By Schaffner-Queen Co.

St. Augustine, the Early Christian missionary from Rome to England, in the sixth century, gave the following definition for "monument":

"Monument," he says, "is so named from 'monishing'—that is, putting in mind."

He says, further, that a "monument" is raised over a grave so that those who are "withdrawn from the eyes of the living" may not "by forgetfulness be also withdrawn from men's hearts."

It is the earnest desire of everyone to perpetuate the memory of departed loved ones. How to do so effectively requires the advice and assistance of an experienced, sympathetic funeral director.

He endeavors to make the quality of his service a worthy "monument" to the memory of the departed one—a tribute to be long and gratefully remembered.

SAY JAMES ADMITS MURDER OF BOY, 5

Former Marion Man Makes Statement After Month in Solitary.

Ralph James, former Marion laborer, who is a convict in the state branch prison at Marquette, Mich., for the murder of a 15-year-old Detroit girl, today was reported by the Associated Press to have confessed to the murder of a five-year-old Detroit boy.

A month of solitary confinement broke the man's morale and the confession followed, the news service reported.

In his confession James is said to have told of kidnaping the boy, criminally assaulting him in a deserted field, and then throwing him alive into the River Rouge and watching him drown.

The killing occurred more than two years ago. At the time the boy's body was found, it was believed he had fallen into the river while at play.

James also is said to have admitted mistreatment of six other children, two boys and two girls in Ohio and a boy and a girl in Detroit.

Poisonous Fog Due to Star Dust.

Martin Gil, director of the meteorological service of Argentina, advances a novel explanation for the recent fog which was held responsible for sixty-seven deaths in Belgium and many deaths in southern England.

A number of scientists have scouted the view that the fog was poisonous as claimed, pointing out that fogs such as are experienced along the English channel are always marked by more than the normal number of deaths, the foggy atmosphere accentuating the afflictions of those suffering throat trouble.

This Argentine scientist, however, holds that the recent fog very probably was caused by star dust and was really poisonous. He cites similar mysterious visitations, one notable one being a fog over Europe and Northern Africa in August of 1831 and another being a gas which swept over La Paz, Bolivia, from August 27 to 29 in 1762.

Senor Gil states that there are nine points in the sky where star dust is so thick as to have caused them to become known as radiant points and that many of them, especially those which are especially noticeable in August, November and December, are believed by some scientists to be the remains of comets. One of the most brilliant of these points in December is the place in the sky occupied by the Leonides, which is the same position in which the comet of 1866 disappeared, the disappearance being followed by a most deadly outbreak of cholera in Europe. The earth, it may be said, is to pass through the densest part of this cloud dust from November 11 to 13 of 1932.

The contention of Director Gil is that the presence of the star dust in the earth's atmosphere invariably produces intense electro-magnetic activity, which "causes organic and respiratory disorders in persons of nervous sensibility," this activity being generated by the minute particles of star dust which strike the earth's atmosphere at a speed of 137,800 feet a second, forty-two times the speed of a projectile leaving a modern high-power cannon.

The fog which caused the recent death toll in Europe may have been different from the ordinary only in being exceedingly heavy and outpressing. Again it may have been poisoned by visitors from the sky as held by Senor Gil. It is not for the layman to decide when the scientists disagree. But when it is considered that hundreds of thousands of meteorites strike our atmosphere daily, it is conceivable that a mighty augmentation of the number, such as our earth meets in passing through the denser portions of these radiant points, might have the effect this Argentine scientist describes.

No Dominion Status for India.

London cables tell of another failure on the part of Prime Minister MacDonald to get the Moslem and Hindu delegates to the Indian round table conference there into agreement. The Moslems persist in demanding a preponderance of representation in both the federal and provincial legislatures and in the executive branch of the governments while the Hindus, on the other hand, insist that they shall have the degree of representation in government which their numbers and their voting strength would give them.

The London conference has been in progress for weeks and may continue for weeks longer, but when it comes to a close the natives will probably be no closer to their hoped-for goal of dominion status than they were at the opening of the gathering. While they did not know it then perhaps, they should now know that Great Britain does not intend to give them the boon they seek, and has had no such intention from the beginning.

If they lacked assurance of the British position up to this week the notice given them by Viscount Sumner, president of the Empire society, and Winston Churchill should suffice to remove all uncertainty in the matter, the former having made it a point to declare that the right to settle the future of India, claimed by the conference, belonged to the British parliament only, and the latter having declared that "nothing like a dominion status for India can come out of the conference."

Mr. Churchill frankly charged that the Indian aim was for absolute independence, and that, were that gained, India would repudiate all debts, expel the British army and look to Germany or some other European nation to defend Hindu despotism, and the Conversative statesman went on to chide both the British Indian government and the British home government for meeting "these dangerous and absurd pretensions with soft platitudes." He held that the British nation hadn't the slightest intention of surrendering control of Indian life and progress and termed the assumption of the round table conference to frame a constitution for India ridiculous.

Declaring that there could be nothing binding either morally or legally in any agreement reached by the conference, Mr. Churchill concluded with the statement that Gandhism must be crushed. "It's no use trying to satisfy a tiger with bits of catsmeat. Above all, it must be understood that Britain has no intention of abandoning its mission in India. Such a step would mean a speedy downfall of the empire, and from such a catastrophe there would be no recovery."

At the opening of the conference, it was the rather general press view outside Great Britain that the Indian delegates would be sent away at the conclusion of the gathering with concessions which might mean to them steps toward complete Indian rule but which in reality had no such meaning. This view can hardly be longer entertained in the face of the declaration of Viscount Sumner, speaking for the Empire society, and the blunt statements of Mr. Churchill and others of somewhat similar, if in more restrained, tone. If India attains independence in the near future it will be by fighting for it and not by way of gift over a conference table.

The Cunard company is planning to have the Mauretania make four Atlantic trips each month instead of every five and a half weeks as at present. If the former blue ribbon holder rolls correspondingly with the increased speed, a round trip on her should afford a complete education in gymnastics.

The drinking of hard liquor has been banned in all "pubs," beer houses and restaurants in Prussia between the hours of 3 and 9 a. m. The evident idea is that Prussia wants to start the day with a clear head, but if a clear head is desirable in the morning, why not the entire twenty-four hours around?

The London Institute of Engineers is conducting a research looking to the discovery of a scientific cure for seasickness, believing that such a discovery would benefit shipbuilding and shipping interests a thousandfold. Huh! Just about every one who has made a trip across the Atlantic can not only give a cure, but, better still, an absolute preventive. Of course, none of them may work, but that doesn't prevent travelers from prescribing them.

An Old Landmark Gone.

The old haw tree out on the former Day property on east Church street was cut down yesterday, and soon all indications that it once stood along the walk and broke the glare of the sun on passersby will have disappeared.

It was a grand old tree, and probably one of the oldest living things in the city. Its age had been estimated at 100 years upward, and it probably had sprung up several decades before a century ago, as the oldest inhabitants had known it as a landmark in their early childhood. Its flat top, and branch spread of fifty or sixty feet had afforded shelter for them from heat and rain; its foliage being so thick that nothing less than a real storm penetrated its leafage and wet the soil beneath.

In springtime, it was a mass of bloom and in the early fall its green was diversified by the red of its ripe fruit. But it served to keep the sidewalk mussy from the soil about its trunk and worst of all it kept the grass from growing in the intense shadow of its leafage.

And so it has gone—this old landmark which was one of the most striking trees along the thoroughfare and shortly it will be forgotten. But that's the way of us of America. We do not treasure old things, even though they may be landmarks and rich in memories of a happy past. We get rid of them. And thus, in the hope of raising a little grass, this fine old tree which showed the development of scores upon scores of years was sacrificed.

President Rome C. Stephenson, of the American Bankers' association, has proposed a franchise tax of $50 against every voter, which will be remitted when he casts his vote. Neglect or refusal to vote without a sound excuse will cause the tax to be assessed and a short jail term to be inflicted. The day following last month's election here in Ohio a lot of our Republican friends were inclined to the view that far too many citizens voted as it was.

Editorial Opinion.

THE PLIGHT OF FREEDOM.

When Chief Justice Hughes remarked in Washington recently that the greatest difficulty in the American system of government today is the reconciliation of the interests of the community with the requirements of individual liberty, he touched on an issue that is to become more and more pressing as the years pass.

It is an issue that doesn't get a great deal of public attention, for it is a hard thing to dramatize. But it lies back of an enormous amount of the present unrest, and it will generate more in the future.

To be sure, we get it occasionally in connection with prohibition. But prohibition, after all, is only one phase of it.

Generations ago individual liberty counted for nothing, except among a favored few at the very top. A man had what rights his sovereign gave him, and if he was wise he took them and tried to be satisfied. The state—meaning, generally, the king, or the diminutive, but powerful, ruling oligarchy—was supreme.

Then, with the American and French revolutions, came the new idea. Individual liberty, instead of counting for nothing, counted for everything. This was especially true in America. Some of the early colonists were even too jealous of their individual liberties to submit to taxation. The looser a government was and the less it touched the life of the average citizen the better every one liked it.

But while this new concept of the value of individual liberty was rising, a complicating element was coming in—the industrial revolution, which began when the steam engine was made practical and which is still going on. It set up a current that swept directly against the growth of individual freedom.

For the industrial revolution, concentrating population in big cities, speeding up every aspect of human life and bringing every man into infinitely closer touch with his neighbors, made life ever so much more complicated than it had been before. Individual liberty, growing yearly more desirable, became yearly harder to attain.

Consider the amount of government regulation with which our lives have to be surrounded. It ranges from vast contrivances like the League of Nations down through government supervision of railroad rates and electric power combines to village laws against driving an automobile too fast or putting a radio loudspeaker on the sidewalk. It includes thousands of laws and ordinances. Most of them are irksome—but they are necessary, although they could not have been necessary a century ago.

So there is our problem, as Chief Justice Hughes points out. It is, perhaps, the knottiest problem of the day.—Columbus Citizen.

Grant's Resourcefulness.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

When Whitelaw Reid was collecting matter for use in his short life of General Grant to be used in his "Ohio in the War," he wrote to a man in southern Ohio who had been a schoolmate with Grant, the boy, in the Ohio village, asking him to try to recall the most striking thing that he then observed in Grant, the boy, and his request brought out this story.

On one occasion, Ulysses was given his father's team of draft horses to go to a woods some miles distant to haul home some heavy hewn timbers. Grant was but twelve years old at this time, and so, while regarded as perfectly competent to handle the team, he would, of course, not have the strength to load the heavy timbers, so arrangements were made for a number of men to be in the woods with hand spikes to load the timbers for him.

But when Ulysses arrived at the woods the men were not on hand. There had been some misunderstanding. Most boys would have driven the wagon back home empty. Not so with young Grant. Nearby he observed a partly fallen tree whose trunk rose gradually from the ground as it proceeded toward the top. This condition, young Grant determined, should be the means of helping him out of the situation.

He unhitched his team from the wagon, and chaining the double tree to the hewn beams, dragged them across the trunk of the fallen tree, where it was practically level with the ground, one after the other, so that the ends projected out far beyond the fallen tree trunk, and then skidded them all up along the supporting tree trunk until there was ample room to back his wagon under their projecting ends.

With the wagon wheels firmly blocked, he then hitched his team to the beams, one after the other, and drew them over on to his wagon. It took scarcely longer to do this than it does to tell about it, and Ulysses was shortly on his way home where he appeared shortly, greatly to the surprise of his father.

When Croup Attacks in Night.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the most painful experiences of childhood is the ailment formerly known as "membranous croup." We hear that name infrequently these days because now it is recognized as a mild form of diphtheria.

The symptoms of this condition are caused by an inflammation of the larynx, the windpipe, with the formation of a false membrane. It usually attacks the child between the ages of two and five years.

The attack may start as a cold does. There may be some fever, and general discomfort. It may come very suddenly in other cases.

In a sudden attack, which is apt to come on at night, the child is awakened from sleep gasping for breath. The mucous membrane lining the throat is so swollen that scarcely any air can pass through. There is a sharp, barking cough, with what is usually described as a "metallic sound." The fever increases and the pulse is rapid.

The child appears to be desperately sick. It is natural that the mother should feel terrified. But heroic measures should be taken at once, so she must be as calm as possible. The first thing to do is to send for a doctor. While awaiting his coming there are certain things to be done to give relief to the little sufferer.

Put the child in a hot bath at a temperature of about 100 degrees. Be careful not to have the water too hot, so as to scald the little patient. Try the heat of the water on your elbow to make sure it is safe for the child.

Keep the little patient in the bath for fifteen to twenty minutes. At the same time cold compresses should be applied to the head.

In an older child a hot foot bath, to which a teaspoonful of mustard has been added, may be adequate to draw the blood from the upper part of the body. When this takes place it gives relief to the sufferer.

Syrup of ipecac, or syrup of squills, is sometimes given to induce vomiting, so that the mucous accumulation in the throat may be cleared away. But every such remedy, all drugs, indeed, should be given only when the family doctor prescribes.

The child is usually frightened at the extreme difficulty in breathing. He wants to be taken up and carried. Keep the child well wrapped and guarded against exposure if taken from bed.

It may be necessary to apply a treatment known as "intubation." In this a tube is inserted in the throat, enabling the child to breathe. Fortunately this procedure is rare these days. Antitoxin has saved the necessity of operation in thousands of cases.

The important thing to remember is to apply the immediate treatment I have outlined. This is likeyl to give relief to the sufferer.

Membranous croup is always a dangerous thing to handle. The larynx is in the narrowest part of the respiratory passage, so that a slight obstruction may prove serious.

I never think of this ailment, which used to be so common when I was a young doctor, without a feeling of extreme thankfulness that science has found a means of prevention. With the universal inoculation against diphtheria, membranous croup will disappear.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

C.S. Q—What can I do to correct lisping?

A—I would suggest that you consult a neurologist.

Just a Friend. Q—Can you advise me what to do for asthma?

A—The cause must be located before treatment can be advised. Certain oders, possibly the pollen of some plants, gases, dust, violent emotions and certain foods will bring on attacks. For other information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and repeat your question.

Lessons of the Stars.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

For centuries astronomers and laymen have been looking upward at night and wondering at the mighty stellar display of the heavens. Much astronomical information in early days was interwoven and legendary, being based upon superstition and immemorial tradition.

Today, we enjoy an inestimable advantage over the ancients in possessing elaborate, accurate and huge instruments for making our studies. The deepest of all puzzles is how all these bright and beautiful objects came into existence, and the course of evolution through which they have passed in reaching their present state.

Stars may be classified into various types, according to certain standards by which they may be compared with one another. There are classifications according to stellar magnitudes—such as giant stars and dwarf stars. Then, again, stars may be classified according to colors—blue, red, yellow, white—for example.

Also, stars may be classified according to the speeds at which they are moving through space. And, lastly, stars may be classified according to the constituents of which they are made up, these being indicated by the various lines which show up in the spectral picture of the light from the individual stars.

Some of these classifications may have interlocking relationships. Thus the hot stars are found to move with relative slowness; whereas the red stars show a greatly increased speed. According to Dr. Plaskett, the Canadian astronomer, for example, the average speed for B stars, sometimes known as helium stars, is 6.5 kilometers per second.

The average speed for A stars, of which Sirius, Vega is an example, is 10.9 kilometers a second. In the case of the very speedy stars, the red stars, the rate ranges as high as 17.1 kilometers per second for these stars, which are supposed to be comparatively cold.

There is a famous classification of stars, known as the Draper classification, which has long been standard among astronomers. The exhaustive work of classifying hundreds of thousands of stars was carried on at the Harvard observatory under the direction of E. C. Pickering. The results were collected, notably by Miss Cannon; published in nine large volumes, and dedicated to Dr. Henry Draper, the American astronomer, famous for making excellent lunar photographs.

According to this scheme, classes of stars are denoted by letters of the alphabet, in the curious order O, B, A, F, G, K, M, R, N, and S. It is interesting to note that nine-tenths of the stars are included within the six classes, B to M.

As pointed out by Williams in "The Great Astronomers," Class B stars show prominently the lines of hydrogen and helium. In some of these stars, the helium is partially disrupted; such also is the state of silicon, oxygen and nitrogen. Rigel, Regulus, and the bright stars in the Pleiades belong to this class, which take the name Orion stars.

In class A, line of hydrogen show up prominently in the spectra. Sirius, Vega and Castor belong to this class.

In class F, the lines of ionized calcium, which were weak in stars of class A, become more prominent. Some of the stars in this class have a spectrum closely resembling that of the sun. Typical F stars are Procyon and Canopus, which are white stars.

The sun belongs to class G. There are an enormous number of metallic lines in the spectra of these stars; and hydrogen and ionized calcium remain prominent.

Class K consists of arange stars, of which Arcturus and Aldebaran are conspicuous examples. The lines of ionized metals become weaker, of neutral metals, stronger.

Strong bands of titanium oxide appear in stars of M class; and these red stars number among them Antares and Betelguese.

As Smart says: "The spectra of the sequence B to M, are, with a few exceptions, absorption spectra—that is, each spectrum consists of the rainbow colors, red, orange, etc., to violet, crossed by dark lines."

In class O the most important lines are bright lines of hydrogen, of ionized helium, carbon, oxygen and nitrogen; there are, in addition, several bright lines of unknown origin. The classes R and S are red stars and comparatively rare in the heavens. — Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 13—This is the day this column tries to be silly and gay. The week's work is ended, the town riveting stops at noon, the morning post—mail in Gallipoli—brings the pay check and life is otherwise pleasantly savoured. On Saturday I usually garland my hair to skip and tra-la here and there.

Sometimes I stop and do a hand-stand on a water plug. I'm that happy. But not on Saturday. For one thing the Sealyham gets into a box of old-fashioned taffy during the night and the house is all stuck-up and sticky. I'll likely have to be pried out of the chair I'm sitting in.

Yet every time I go out to scold the rascal in disgrace under the kitchen table, he rolls over on his back, waves his paws tremulously in the air so friendly-like, I lose heart. He "cutes" me with coyness. The only solution is to hire some brute to scotch him.

To hie away from it all for a little while and while gone my wife discovered the rascally pooch had wiped his charlesevanhughs on the parlor drapes—I dropped over to a famous hotel to see a friend from out of town. I don't know why all hotel clerks hate me on sight, but they do.

The minute I walk up to the front desk they swell up with rage. I affect theater box office men the same way. Nobody is more or more self-effacing with a hotel clerk than I. Invariably I remove my hat, cough apologetically behind a hand and stand to one side and wait, nursing a parochial notion they will finally see me.

But no matter how occupied they are when I appear, they immediately find a dozen things to do. Not once—save that time at Palm Beach—have I ever spoken to one first. In this digression was meekly to tell him a measuring worm was crawling up his collar. But today after thirty minutes I exploded.

Clapping my hands together sharply I said that—one, two, three!—the monster in me, springing to the fore, I cried: "See here! Is any one going to pay attention to me around here or are they?" I get all balled up when excited that way and remember nothing until next day at noon. Often not until 4 o'clock.

One clerk detached himself, but catching a glimpse of his puss in passing a mirror, halted to give his tie a quick yank, then coolly surveying his meticulous nails ends inquired with a Voltaireian profundity: "Yee-e-e-s?" And before I could tell him he was yelling for some passerby: "Hello, Roy, how's every little trick?" That type. I flipped on my heel and stamped out. A nice way to treat a son of a hotel man who has patronized hotels since the good old days of roller towels.

• • •

And look. As though the day was not enough of a complete flop I had to annex a drunk on my way home. He lurched out of a subway exit, steadied himself and leered at me. "Nothing," he hiccuped, "sets a fella off like a nice pair of spats. What do you do for a living, buddy, beside putting icing on cakes?"

• • •

I bore up bravely, trying to look at ease running the gauntlet of titterers, but it is only a question of time until I have to give up fripperies or keep off the public highways. Any day they may quit hooting and start shooting.

• • •

Then there was the ensuing incident of the pocket lighter. For many weeks it has been sparking, but nothing happens and if you want to be a town boy your lighter must work. I stopped in at Dunhill's and told the clerk my dilemma. He looked at it, then looked at me. "How do you expect it to light," he acquired, "with no wick?" I should have thanked him but with the day's irks my blood steamed up and I bellowed: "Well, why put the wick in the thing in the first place? Think that one over for absolute zero in zip comebacks.

When I got home I told my wife I believe I was getting dotty. "Getting?" she replied with an inquiring inflection, and so I locked all the doors to my work-shop and have been sitting here pouting ever since. And when I pout I pout. My lips stick out and everything.

• • •

Outside, a mean, chilling drizzle falls. The clouds overhead are as dark as my thoughts. The room is becoming suffocatingly hot. A lot of good I am in this world. I have a notion to open a window—and sit right smack in a draft.—Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Mexico's Unique Capital.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Picturesque and historic Mexico City, located at the astonishing altitude of 7,000 feet, has enjoyed a phenomenal period of expansion during the last decade.

Ten years ago Mexico's ancient capital was only one-third its present size and was populated by only half as many people. Proportionately, American tourists have been attracted there in ever-increasing numbers.

Not the least of the charms of the so-called "City of Palaces" is its marvelous climate. Because of its great height, this tropical metropolis enjoys spring weather all the year round. Mexico City lies in the bowl of a gigantic Anahuac valley. Towering volcanic mountains look down upon it from all sides. The biggest of these are the "Mountain of Smoke" and "The White Woman," both of which strain to the sky for 17,000 feet.

Despite modern influences, Mexico City contains much of the beauty which captivated the Spanish conqueror, Cortez, when he first viewed the city hundreds of years ago.

Mexico City was then known as Tenochtitlan and was the capital of the vast Aztec empire which reached far down into Central America and north into what is now part of the United States.

The Spanish conquistadors, led by Cortez, conquered the pagan city and razed it to the ground. It was rebuilt along Spanish lines but it was 2000 years before the city once more attained the huge proportions of its pre-Cortez days.

Ages later, under the rule of the ill-fated Maximilian, the city once more was restored to its ancient splendor. Broad beautiful boulevards were laid out and gardens at intervals.

During the administration of Porfirio Diaz, Mexico City was truly glorified, architecturally speaking. He filled the city streets with monuments and magnificent buildings.

Among the outstanding edifices he erected was the splendid national postoffice. Architecturally it is a gem with its many geometric designs, garland mouldings and ornaments typical of the Spanish school.

REAL ESTATE LOANS HIGHER

Mortgages Here Increase from $13.556 to $58.064 in Week.

Although the number of mortgages in Marion county fell from 14 to 11 during the last week as compared to the week before, the amount of money involved totaled $58,064, a marked increase over the $13,556.49 figure of the previous week. The figures are revealed by books in County Recorder Charles A. Markert's office.

The total was large due to great extent, to a $47,000 mortgage on one Marion county property.

City mortgages totaled $4,677, a decline from the $12,756.49 figure of the week before, while county mortgages amounted to $53,387. Loan associations assumed only $4,400 of the total.
